Assignment #2: Ontology

My ontology is about the band Weezer because it is a band that I have been following for years. I wanted to provide an in-depth description of their discography. This includes self-released studio album, compilation albums, and extended plays. It also includes their music videos, as well as albums they were featured on by third parties. I also include related information about the band members and the songs themselves. I chose to include details such as what songs were in what albums, when they were released (both as singles and on the full album), if there have been any associated awards, if there are any featured artists, who the lead singer is on a particular song, and who wrote the song. I have five main classes which help outline this information. They include: Members, Albums, Songs, Awards, and Music Video Directors. The sub-classes for are organized accordingly and provides information that allows connections to other sub-classes. One of the more oddly organized classes would be for Music Video Directors. The reason why I chose to organize this class specifically by director was because Weezer worked with multiple directors more than once. Also, by organizing this way I was able to easily connect them to the Song class. Overall, the music aspect is the most important part of any band, and this is why I decided to focus on the albums and the details most closely involved.
